New Publications.

ON THURSDAY, the 14th day of June, will be Published the first number of THE WORLD !

AN INDEPENDENT MORNING NEWSPAPER, as to excel in the breadth and variety of its early inform ress and culture, this journal will specially endeavor faithfully expose infidelity and immorality, wherever lurking in the current publications of the day.

In Pouries, THE WORLD will afford early and full infor-It will discuss all political topics with freedom, and will never lend itself to party service. Every party has its good and bad points, commits its good and bad acts, makes its good and bad nominations. This paper will discriminate between these with the strictest impartiality, measuring by no other the Fathers of the Republic, that slavery is a moral, social, and political evil; yet, withal, one that can be safely and effectually treated only by those who have a legislative and legal jurisdiction over it. Recognizing the duty of both the Federal Government and of the States to keep strictly to their own respective constitutional spheres, this paper will oppose, on the one hand, any action by the Federal Government toward planting Slavery where it does not exist; and, on the other hand, any action by the Federal Government, or by the non-slaveholding States, toward uprooting the institution where it does exist. While it will entertain no fear for, and listen to no threats against, the Union. it will ever be thoroughly national in its tone, ever on the side of The Constitution and the laws, and, by just statement and calm appeal, will seek to allay the sectional discord which designing and hot headed partisans labor to excite. In its treatment of all subjects of every nature, it will avoid bitterness. While earnest for right, and unshrinking in rebuke, it will be courteous and genial, always mindful that violence is al nost sure to work more harm than good to truth.

THE DAILY WORLD,

Morning and Afternoon Editions, will be printed on an imperial quarto sheet, larger than that of the present New-York two-cent dailies. It will give the latest telegraphic and other News up to the very point of going to press, and will completely exhibit the Last phase of all the Marke's that concern either the Capitalist, the Merchant, the Mechanic, or the Farmer. In quality of paper, clearness of type, and general attractiveness of appearance at will surpass say journal ever yet issued from an American press. Its price will be ONE CENT per copy; or, when sent by smil, FOUR DOLLARS a year.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY WORLD will be published every Tuesday and Friday, and will embrace all the more important matter of the daily editions, with the latest zonrkets. No Semi-Weekly in this country will compare with i in range of topic and variety of information; and, being perfectly free from everything offensive to a pure taste, it will be preeminently valuable as a family newspaper.

Terms: THERE DOLLARS a-year; two copies to one address. FIVE DOLLARS; five copies ditto, ELEVEN DOLLARS; ten copies sitte, TWENTY DOLLARS.

THE WEEKLY WORLD

will contain all of the matter of the Daily of most interest in the country. Like the Semi-Weekly, it will give special attention to its Agricultural, and Horticultural, and Mechanical Depart ments. Its Provision Market and other Market Reports will be prepared with the greatest care. There is not a farm in the country to which it would not prove a profitable visitor.

TERMS.-Two DOLLARS a year; four copies to one address, FIVE DOLLARS; ten copies ditto, TEN DOLLARS; twenty-five copies ditto, TWENTS DULLARS. An extra copy will be sent to every person forming a club of twenty-five; and for a club of isfty weekly subscribers a copy of the Dally will be sent for one

Special editions of THE WORLD will be prepared for California and Europe. For all of the issues, cash in advence must invariably be paid Specimen copies sent to any person on application.

Considering both the multitude and the character of the read ers for whom it will have special attractions, THE WORLD will present peculiar advantages as an advertising medium, and

Eberal terms will be made. Address THE WORLD, No. 35 Park-row, cor. Beekman-st.,

No scientific subject can be so importent to man as that of his own life. No knowledge can be so increasantly appealed to by the incidents of every day, as the knowledge of the processes by which he lives and acts. At every moment he is in danger of disobeying laws which, when disobeyed, may bring year of suffering decline of powers, premature decay. Sanitary reformers preach in vain, because they preach to a public which does not understand the laws of life—laws as rigorous as those of gravitation or motion. Even the sad experience of others yields us no lessons, unless we understand the principles involved. If one man is seen to suffer from vidialed sir, another is seen to endure it without apparent harm; a third concludes that "it is all chance," and trusts to that chance. Had he understood the principle involved, he would not have been left to chance—his first lesson in swimming would not have been a shipwreck.

LUCILE. I.UCILE.

BY OWEN MEREDITH.

"Lucile is a Novelette in verse. The verse is so skillfully constructed, the narraive foils so essily and moves so freely within those boundaries which neutly frammel and confine it, and the whole progress of the tale is conducted so smoothly and artistically, that we are inclined to prefer the ferm chosen to any other. " "Here and there are gauss of real poetry, which must have been absent had prose been the medium adopted."—[The London Crific.

From The Passbyterian Witness, Nashville, Tenn,
"Upon the whole, we regard it as the most calm, trathful, manly, and sensible book that has ever yet appeared from the Northern or Southern press, on the subject of Slavery."

From Sinner E. Monas, esq., in The N. Y. Observer.

"Though it is no part of Dr. A.'s object to writedown Sisvery, he incidentally shows its intrinsic badness by proofs both from reason and scripture, more profound, more effectual, more unassailable by sophistry, than any that Mr. Garrison ever knew. And yet the book cantains nothing which any decent man's slave might not read without hating his master. It was not written to promote the interests or secure the favor of any party, North or South. Those who knew snything of the author need not be told that there is nothing dull in this book. It deals in facts so clearly apprehended and graphically described, and possesses such a living, human interest, that they enchain the reader as fiction is seldom able to."

From the Rev. Asa Cummings, D. D., Pottland, Me.
"If Slavery in our land is to be brought to a peaceful end by Christian means, myriads on myriads will hereafter thank Dr.
Adams and bless his memory for this labor of love. His book does not lessen in any degree our horror of Slavery, but it opens a door of hope for relief."

LIFE OF STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS. By J. W. SHEARAY Editor of The Chicago Times. With a Portrait. In I Vol.

A SERIES OF SCHOOL AND FAMILY READERS, siming at the Highest Degree of Usefalness. Splendidly Illustrated; Consisting of a Primer and Seven Readers. By Mancuis Williams. The Primer, and the First, Second, Third, and Fourts Readers ready.

THE PRIMER (Introductory)—Beginning with the Alphabet, is divided into Four Parts, and extends to words of Four Letters. The conversational style is adopted to a considerable extent, and marks are given to denote the proper infections, that the child, nided by the teacher, may begin to read naturally, and thus avoid those bad habits which are so difficult of correction. Price Is cents.

WILLSON'S FIRST READER—Beginning with easy words of Six Letters in Parts IV, and V, and a few easy words of Six Letters in Parts IV, and V, and a few easy words of six and three syllables. In this Reader also the conversational style is frequently introduced, and the system of inflections is continued. Price 20 cents.

WILLSON'S ECOND READER—Is divided into Seven Farts, each preceded by one or more educational Rules, designed for the use of the Teacher only, and to enforce upon him the impostance of requiring the pupils to read as directed by the inflections. Superior illustrative engravings are made the subjects of a large number of Reading Lessons. Part VII., entitled "Lessons on Objects," contains a Lesson by Colora, which is illustrated by a becautiful colored plate, in which it wenty different colors are accurately designated. Price, 20 cents. WILLSON'S THIRD READER-Contains, will son's Third Reader-Contains, first, a brief synopsis of the "Elements of Elecution."—Part I., "Stories from the Bible." Part II. "Moral Lessons." Part III. takes up the first great division of Animal Life, the "Manumalis," mostly Quadrupeds. This portion is made exceedingly interesting, and the illustrations are unsurpressed in any work on Natural History. Poelical and Prose Selections give variety to the Lessons. Part IV. "Miscellaneous," Price 30 cents. WILLSON'S FOURTH READER—Contains, after the "Elements of Elecution," Part I., "Human Physiology and Health." Part II. resumes the subject of Animal Life in the division which treats of "Ornithology, or Boxtos." The same as with Quadrupeds, the leading species of the several Glusses or Orders of Eirick are grouped in cuts, which show their relative sizes, and many of the most beautiful poetic gens in our language illustrate the descriptive positions, and give variety to the Reading Lessons. Part III., "Vegetanle Physiology, or hotany." Fart IV., "Miscellaneous." In Part V. "Natural Philosophy," we look in upon the school at "Genweild," and listen to the conversations held in a "Volunteer Philosophy Class." Part VI., "Naterde From Sacred History, contains some of the finest selections of Sacred Poetry, with becutiful illustrations. Price of cents.

In amouncing the completion of this Superb Edition of the Works of the Great Dramatist, the publishers refer with a feeding of pride to the efforts they have made to produce what they fully believe to be the most beautiful and perfect edition ever Issued at a price placing it within the reach, not only of the wealthy, but of persons of moderate means. Over $55,000 have been expended in its production, and it has occupied the unremitting attention of Mr. Staunton for a period of over four years. The Illustrations are most numerous, and are executed with a spirit and character never surpassed. The Text, it is believed, is excelled by none in purity, and the whole derives additional interext from the New Life of the Foet, by Mr. Staunton, enriched as it is by much new matter which has just been brought to light in the Rolls Court, London, and handed by Sir John Romily to Mr. Staunton for examination.
Subscribers are respectfully requested to make up their sets as early as possible.
